

Mother Teresa Sierra

Mother Teresa lived a fairly long life helping people in need. First of all, Mother Teresa whose true name was Agnes Gonxhe Bojaxhiu, was born August 26 1910. She was baptized August 27 1910. She died September 5, 1997, of a heart attack; she was 87 at the time. Mother Teresa had an older brother and an older sister. Her father Nicholas was a building contractor and her mother Drana came from Venice. Moreover, When Agnes was 8 her father took ill and died. Mother Teresa lived in Skopje, Yugoslavia, in the kingdom of Albania. Her early education was at the Sacred Heart Church, then she moved on to a non Catholic church. After her father's death her mother raised her as a Roman Catholic. At age 12, she committed herself to a religious life. At age 18, Agnes joined the Sisters of Loretta; she never saw her family again. Mother Teresa committed herself to a very difficult life but she did it well.

Mother Teresa did her best to help poor sick and dying people around the world. To begin with, Mother Teresa opened orphanages all around the world. Mother Teresa said that she couldn't make everything better; she could only make it bearable. In 1979, she won the Nobel Peace Prize. Mother Teresa worked hard for what she believed in.

Mother Teresa is personally of interest to me because she helped many people who needed it. She was very kind to everyone, and there are countless numbers of people who are grateful for what she did.
